Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Short Account of the Land Revenue and Its Administration in British India: With a Sketch of the Land Tenures In pronouncing the vernacular words which occur in this book, it is only necessary for the general student to remember, that the words are not to be read with the peculiarly English sound of vowels: that is sure to be wrong. Adopt generally the Italian or continental vowel list. The most prominent feature is the unaccented a, a short vowel pronounced as in organ or as the u in jug; never like the a in fat. The accented a is the broad a of the French or Italian gateau, lago; i and i are respectively, as in the English words pit and peat; and u are - oo - the former shorter, the latter more prolonged. In this book, the u in any Indian word is never to be sounded like the u in jug , for that would be short a. The letter e is a diphthong, and sounded like e in French; au is like how, not like awe ; y is always a consonant. Of consonants, it is only necessary to mention that th is never a sibilant (either as in this or thin) but only t with a slight aspirate. The kh and gh (with a line under) are the gutturals of the Perso-Arabic (like loch and lough in Scotch or Irish). As there are two kinds of k, we use for the one k, and the other q without the conventional u added. Abbreviations. To save space, the letters L. R. are occasionally used instead of printing Land Revenue at..
