Publisher: Higher Education Press. Magnetic field is a powerful means of material properties. because it has a direct contact with the substance of elementary particles and magnetic moment. Since the 20th century. with the rapid development of science and technology research means constant innovation. scientists study the structure of matter has gone deep into the atom inside the atomic internal is a small magnetic field. The electrons orbiting around the nucleus at the nucleus itself is also rotating. so will have a magnetic field. the microscopic magnetic field for human understanding of the chemical structure provides an effective way. People a lot of interest in how the magnetic field affects the material properties. and even research on the influence of the magnetic field on chemical reactions have been widely carried out. and the creation of a new discipline - magnetic chemical. Magnetic chemical is a Chemistry and Chemical Engineering disciplines very promising field. and in nearly 40 years before the 1960s. however. one can only get 0.1 to 1T of the magnetic field. this strength of the magnetic field on chemical reactions is almost negligible. such as 1T magnetic field and the molecular interaction energy for 11.2Jmol is much smaller than usually required for chemical reaction activation energy of ~ 10 100kJmol the past chemists have always thought that the reactants and the magnetic interaction energy is not enough to significantly affect the general chemical reaction. the magnetic field of basic chemical reactions does not work. Magnetic material and energy of the system increase with the magnetic field strength is proportional to the square. so the dozens of T even 100T super magnetic...
